A glowing crescent moon is the central focus, set against a deep blue, textured background that resembles a night sky or a watercolor wash. The moon's light is bright and soft, creating a gentle glow around its edges. The background has various shades of blue, from dark indigo to lighter, almost white highlights, with some darker, more saturated areas that give it a sense of depth and movement. The overall mood is serene and contemplative.

A watercolor illustration of a violin and its bow. The violin is rendered in shades of brown and tan, with dark lines indicating the f-holes and the body's contours. The bow is shown in a light blue-grey color, positioned diagonally across the violin. The background is a mix of soft, blended colors: a large area of light yellow and beige, a section of bright blue, and a dark purple area at the top left. The overall style is artistic and expressive, with visible brushstrokes and color washes.

Tons e poesia,
